Pope blasts Spanish ;

Pope Pius VII blasted the Spanish leaders today called the incursion in the Papal states a bludgeon onto Gods eye. This act of Satan worship will be avenged by the good Christian men around Europe who should rally to the Papal states defence. The Pope is quoted as saying " The smelly Spanish are defecating all over Rome and need to be removed immediately".

The Papal state defenders taken by surprise either surrendered or fled south to Naples, their fate is still not known at this time. Spanish emperor Ronaldeeno reacted to the news saying " we did it for their own good and all troops to told to bath before the invasion"

Beer up in Baveria

The price of beer has increased mainly due to an Austrian slowed down sales of hops at the border.

Grand price MAC has been quoted saying "we'll punch the Grand Duke in the nuts if he interferes with beer production on the Rhine.

Invasion repulsed:

A massive Austrian invasion of Bavaria was repulsed by local farmers and store keepers. Taunting the retreating Austrians one farmer was quoted as saying "Go back to Austria and get some food if you're that Hungarian'. Another threw beer bottle caps at them which read "please invade again". Word is the Grand Duke is not amused

Tourists flock to Rome

The Spanish invasion of Rome has become a major tourist attraction as the small but boisterous group of Infantry are dressing up as centurions and reenacting Hannibal's invasion. Locals who are not amused are being asked to stand on each others shoulders and act like elephants.

Business news

Local business has been told that the price of bread "baguettes" in particular and tea have been rising in Paris and Naples. The Bavarian coop will assist anyone in taking advantage of these opportunities.

Vienna sausages:

Austrian Forces once again retreated from Bavarian this time due to shortages of rations mainly Vienna sausages. Local farmers offered the men Bavarian sausages, Oktoberfest sausages but none were sufficient and the Austrians went home. Meanwhile Bavarian forces prepare for an attack one captain said if they ever get enough sausages their bound too attack, I think.

Popes pray answered:

An international coalition entered Rome this week ending Spanish tyranny and freeing the Pope. The locals were heard saying "it was just like Atilla the Hun all over again but he took a bath". The international forces were made up of Russians, Brits, Papal and Naples forces, colourful lot indeed.

Czar commits help:

Czar Christopher has finally agreed to help Austria and help is on the way. According to Russian new papers The Grand Dukes pleads have been answers and help is coming when no one knows.

Business news:

Food prices continue to rise as military demand outstrips production.

Butchery in Bavaria

Austrian forces attacked and slaughtered the brave defenders of Bavaria. Stragglers continue to cross the borders with grim tales of the debauchery and unchivalrous behaviors of the Austrians. The Baden government announced the bad news that heavy casualties among our own Wuttemberg troops are expected and flags are ordered at half mast for a week of mourning.

The Lord protector Joho MacDonaldo has appealed our all to do their part as an imminent attack on Baden is expected. All home guard leave is cancelled and all soldiers are to return to barracks. One seven years veteran was quoted as saying " They battered baveria but they'll be bad off in Baden.

Meanwhile word on the counter attack in Rome is imminent, General Davis Janies of The Italian Republic is heading the effort and won't let us down.
